

THE SOUTHERN CARNIVAL COMPANY

Col. Nat Reiss and His Great Show Will be Here
One Week, Commencing Nov. 21

Arrangements are being perfected for the return appearance of the famous Nat Reiss Southern Carnival company Monday, Nov. 21, for a week of festivity. The city council has granted the use of the streets from First street west on Railroad avenue and the cross streets abutting thereon, saying "this is the home of the popular attraction, and we must welcome them with open arms." The company will winter here again this year and everybody is corresponding to be happy. The Southern has maintained its excellent reputation throughout its wide itineraries, and broke in much new territory, where they will be welcomed at any time for a return engagement. From notices from all over the coast are unstinted in their praise of Nat Reiss' shows and pronounce them incomparably superior to any similar organization ever witnessed.

Chas. A. Doyle, the agent, referring to the past season's experience said: "Last season (1933) the Southern Carnival company made its first tour of the Pacific coast, and found several cities and towns in which there was much opposition to carnivals, due to the fact that several 'rag shop' outfits had given street fairs which were characterized by inferior and immoral attractions. I want to assure the people of Albuquerque, that, as heretofore, no liquor, no hangooroo, no gambling, and no grafting of any nature whatever will be tolerated on the carnival streets. It has always been the aim of the Southern Carnival company to eliminate what are too often obnoxious features at carnivals, and I think the reputation we have earned through seven successful seasons is sufficient evidence to the city of our judgment in endeavoring to elevate the carnival business.

"Mr. Reiss, the manager of the Southern Carnival company, is one of those who believe the show business can be conducted on lines of strict respectability, and in accordance with true business principles, the same as any other business. He believes that a show enterprise can be conducted just the same as a department store, or as a big manufacturing concern; and the same business principles apply to the conduct of a responsible and meritorious show enterprise as apply to the management of a bank or store or factory. That the people agree with Mr. Reiss was amply demonstrated by the heavy patronage accorded the show in every Pacific coast city and town visited this and last season, and by the reports of the press throughout the states and territories.

"Our show is practically a new one since starting our season here. The big stadium has all new features except the Japs, who are unequalled. The free acts are also entirely new, and many changes have been made in the pay shows. There are six splendid shows among the latter that will be entirely new to Albuquerque.

"Mr. Reiss did not wish to hear the remark, 'It's the same old outfit,' but is bringing back a show that is in all respects better than when it started out.

"The week of recreation at our fair that was lost to the people of the country through the awful floods last month can now be enjoyed during carnival week, commencing Monday, Nov. 21, and big crowds will doubtless attend, as the country is being thoroughly advertised."

ROBIN GOULD WINS SCHOLARSHIP

IS VICTORIOUS IN CHICAGO UNIVERSITY ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Robin Gould, son of Dr. George Gould, was the scholarship in the Chicago university and honor for El Paso in the oratorical contest in this city yesterday afternoon. He wired the result to this city last evening and his friends are proud of him.

The contest was open to all high schools in the country that are affiliated with the university of Chicago and was an El Paso boy would win in honor of which the people of this city, especially the many friends of the young victor, are proud.

Robin was the first to enter the contest by defeating all contestants in this city and then went on to Chicago to meet the pupils from all the other high schools of the country who are affiliated with this noted institution of learning. There he entered a preliminary contest with all the student contestants, before a competent committee, which selected five of the best for the final grand effort.

Robin was one of the five and the final effort took place yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the university before the faculty and a large audience of critical people. The five contestants were judged rightly and when the contest had ended "Robin Gould, of El Paso," was declared the winner.

This gives young Gould a free scholarship in the university as a reward for his efforts.

Young Gould has lived in El Paso the greater part of his life. He has many friends here who are proud of his success. He is quite a noted speaker in local circles and has won several medals in various contests about the city—El Paso Herald.

BOY PARRICIDE ARRIVES AT PEN

ISAAC COBLING, THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD MURDERER, TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY.

Sheriff Jose R. Lucero, of Dona Ana county, arrived at Santa Fe from Las Cruces Saturday with Isaac Cobling, the thirteen-year-old parricide who has been sentenced by Judge Parker to serve three years in the territorial penitentiary for the murder of his father.

The crime was committed last June, when young Cobling went into the bedroom occupied by his father and shot him through the head with a Winchester rifle, while he lay asleep. The boy had been berating goals for his father and was accused by his father of being several of them. About 5 o'clock in the morning the father Cobling awakened the boy to light the kitchen fire and told him he was going to wash him for leaving the goals. The boy did as he was told, and, overcome by his father's threats, which he had learned to dread, he seized his gun and killed his father while he was sleeping.

At the trial his mother and neighbors testified that the boy had often been mistreated by his father and as he pleaded guilty Judge Parker sentenced him to three years in the penitentiary. The boy had never had but a few weeks' schooling and his case is not a penitentiary one, but one for the reform school and shows the necessity for such an institution in the territory.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and expose the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete much instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

INDIAN SCHOOL NOTES

SOME POINTERS OF INTEREST TO THE PEOPLE, LOCALLY AND OTHERWISE.

(From Monday's Daily Citizen.)

Many valuable plans are being for the want of attention. When the attention of the public is called to any thing useful they usually ignore it. If it is worth their attention. This has been the case with our school and the farm in connection with it.

Delgado Hodely called the attention of congress to our school and to its needs, and congress appropriated a large sum of money to build new buildings and to improve the plant in a number of ways. Congress also appropriated a large sum to purchase new land for the use of the school.

One of the Indian service inspectors called the attention of the citizens of Albuquerque to the fact that the Indian school ought to have a better road and one that would approach the plant from the front instead of from the rear. At present the attention of the public was not called forcibly enough to this subject, so it drifted along and no definite action was taken until the authorities in Washington refused to go any farther in the matter of improvement until the people opened up the new road or gave some assurance that the road would be opened in the near future. Then the Commercial club of the city took it up of the matter and has assured the Commissioner of Indian Affairs that the road would be opened in the near future. This being done the authorities in Washington began the work of improvement, and is now pushing the same. The Commercial club did not realize how well they were serving when they called the attention of the public to the school, for since that time Levi Chubbuck, a special inspector for the secretary of the interior, has so called the attention of the secretary of the interior to the subject of reclaiming the land belonging to the school, that he has secured an expert from the department of agriculture to make an investigation of the land belonging to the school and report on the same.

Mr. Dorney, the expert from the department of agriculture, was at the school last week and has drawn plans and secured estimates on the material needed to reclaim the land of the school.

These plans and estimates will be submitted to congress in the near future, and it is confidently expected that an additional appropriation will be secured to reclaim the alkaline land of the school. If so, it will be demonstrated that those alkaline lands of this valley can be reclaimed and this fact will be of inestimable more value to the city and community than the amount of money and time that is spent in opening up a first-class road to the school. The department of agriculture has demonstrated the fact that alkaline lands can be reclaimed, as was done in Fresno, California, and is now being carried on in the San Joaquin valley in Arizona. Mr. Dorney has had a great deal of experience in this work and he says that the school farm, and most of the land in this valley, can be reclaimed and made very productive under the system employed by the government.

We have good reason to believe that by the end of two years the citizens of Albuquerque and the people of the community will be rewarded for their earnest work by seeing here a well equipped school plant that will be a thing of beauty and a farm that will produce abundantly grains, vegetables and fruits. This is no dream, but a very possible and a most probable sequence. R. E. PORTER.
